

CIRCUS ELEPHANT CAUSED A STAMPEDE.

Threw a Trunkful of Water While on Parade and a Runaway Resulted.

Paterson Sightseers Flew in Terror and a Boy Was Fatally Hurt in the Crush.

IT WAS THE BARNUM-BAILEY SHOW.

Five Were Seriously Injured and Many
Were Bruised as the Crowd Rushed
Pell Mell to Escape the Maddened Horses.

Paterson, N. J., May 5.—The playful antics of one of Barnum & Bailey's elephants while on parade in this city today led to the death of a boy and the serious injury of five other sightseers. The out-door display of the circus was announced for 11 o'clock, and long before that hour the thoroughfares over which it was to pass were crowded with residents of this place, as well as many surrounding towns.

Midway between Market and Smith streets a coal wagon was standing to which was attached two horses. William C. Schaffhauser sat on the box and was enjoying the parade as it passed that way. More than half of the glittering chariots and booming bands had passed and the double of the King of Siam was approaching on the back of the largest elephant, when the trouble began that led to a stampede. The lumbering mountain of flesh at this point waded playfully, and began to treat his keeper to a shower bath, the balance of a bucketful of water that had been given him from a neighboring trough.

WATER SPRAY STARTED THEM.
As he was passing Schaffhauser's team he ejected a small stream that struck his horses. This, together with the shouts of the crowd and the clash of brass instruments, frightened the horses and they suddenly dashed upon the sidewalk, the heavy coal wagon following as though it had no weight.

From curb to wall the walk was a crowded mass of humanity, into which the frantic horses plunged. A general panic ensued, and many were knocked down and trampled under foot. Then the team started down the thoroughfare toward Market street. The body of the wagon struck against an iron fire hydrant after seventy-five feet had been covered, right in the midst of a mass of struggling humanity. The cries of the injured and of those trampled upon or half smothered by the fleeing crowd caused the greatest excitement.

When the horses had been captured and under partly restored, it was found that Eddie Schultz, eight years old, of No. 26 Cross street, had been knocked down by the horses, horribly kicked about the head and then run over by the wagon wheels. The underlying establishment of Dufford & Vandervoort was turned into a hospital, and the injured were cared for by Drs. James and Parke. It was seen at once that the Schultz boy's injuries would probably prove fatal, and he was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he died at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The others injured, so far as known, were as follows:

SOME OF THE INJURED.
Olga Olsen, sixteen years old, of No. 77 Clinton street, head and face cut by horses' hoofs, shoulder broken by wheel and lower limbs injured.

Edward Olsen, forty years old, father of Olga, badly bruised and probably internally injured.

Mamie Tallen, thirteen years old, of No. 101 street, badly injured about face and limbs and trampled on by crowd.

Thomas Harnden, twelve years old, of No. 10 Lane street, badly cut on head and face.

William G. Schaffhauser, driver of the runaway team, badly bruised about the head and body, was thrown from his seat under the hoofs of the plunging horses when the wagon was stopped by the hydrant.

Schaffhauser was arrested, but Chief Graul, believing that he was not to blame, allowed him to go on his own recognizance. The efforts of the physicians and police to care for the injured were much interfered with by the crowd, which completely blocked Main street for several blocks for fully an hour after the accident.

Almost simultaneously with the catastrophe that caused Eddie Schultz's death, was one that took place at the corner of Grand and Main streets. A circus horse threw its rider and dashed into the crowd, knocking down a woman and an infant. The rider quickly regained his feet and recaptured the horse.

SUITORS FIGHT IN VAIN.

Resort to Blows Over a Pretty Italian
Girl and She Forsakes Them Both.

Franklin, N. J., May 5.—Teresa Spozarto, an attractive Italian girl at Aronvale, near here, is much admired by Louis and Ralph Kirtling, brothers of this place, both of whom have claimed Teresa.

The two have been jealous of each other for some time, and last night matters came to a crisis when the two got into a pitched battle, in which stones and clubs were freely used, but several spectators took a hand in the battle. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of the Kirtlings.

As a result of the battle, the girl has disclaimed her love for both men.

New Trolley to Glen Ridge.
Bloomfield, N. J., May 5.—The North Jersey Street Railway Company was granted a franchise by the Township Committee last night to lay tracks and erect poles and wires from the terminus of the Consolidated Traction Company at Liberty street, to connect with their line at Glen Ridge.

OPPOSED BLOCK SYSTEM.

Van Bussum's Idea of Assessing City Property Leads to His Resignation, with Others.

Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., May 5.—The wholesale resignations and withdrawals of members of the Borough Council have caused a decided sensation here, but none so much as that of Assessor John Van Bussum. When the Council met Monday night Clerk John De Veen resigned on the plea of lack of time to attend to the duties of his office. Marshal J. P. Long followed in quick succession, and his office was declared vacant. Commissioner of Assessors Edgar L. Gott having removed to Hackensack it was at first supposed that his office vacant, but as it was suggested he might return, it was thought best to take no action.

The session of the evening came over the adoption of the new block system in assessing property. Clerk Van Bussum said that he would assess property as usual, and to the consternation of the members declared that the new map which had been made at an expense of $300 cut no figure with him, and that he would assess property in bulk as he always had done, and he didn't care a fig for the so-called block system. His attention was called to the law of 1894, but he said he wouldn't recognize it.

A tax committee comprising Messrs. Lammiman, Schmitt and Dean, which had previously been appointed, declared that Van Bussum was radically wrong in his deductions. This proved too much for the Assessor, who said:

"Gentlemen, I resign. Good evening." Then he picked up his hat and coat and went out. "I know my business," said Van Bussum when he reached the lobby, "and I am tired of sitting in council with people who don't."

SCHOOL ELECTION FIGHT.

Serious Trouble Averted by Cool Heads at a Meeting to Choose Staten Island's Trustees.

Stapleton, S. I., May 5.—A riot was narrowly averted at a special school election held last night in the public school district at Concord. There were two vacancies to be filled in the Board of Trustees and five candidates had made an active canvass, with the result that nearly every voter in the district was on hand at the time fixed for the opening of the polls. Trustee Brandmeyer, who presided, called for a vote upon the nomination of John C. Smith for chairman, and declared him elected before it is alleged, the other faction had been given an opportunity to make a nomination. In an instant a crowd surged toward the platform, and Smith, who promptly took possession of the chair. Threats of personal violence were uttered against Brandmeyer. Smith's friends crowded about him.

For five minutes pandemonium reigned, but finally two policemen, with the aid of the more cool-headed men present, succeeded in restoring order, and Smith was permitted to retain the chair.

Louis Wolf was elected for the long term by a majority of sixteen over James D. Hetherington, and B. Hemmes and Edward Donnelly were chosen for the short term by a majority of 121 over James Martin.

POLICE HELPING RAINES.

Hot on the Trail of Richmond County Liquor Men Who Do Not Display New Licenses.

The police of Richmond County began to vigorously enforce the Raines Liquor Tax law yesterday. Policemen were detailed to visit every liquor place in the county and to report all whose certificates were not displayed in accordance with the law. County Treasurer Wheeler has as yet issued very few of the certificates, but has received the fee and bond from 352 applicants, and has given them an ordinary receipt for the money paid. As a consequence, some 250 reports have been turned in to the police stating that the saloons and hotels doing business contrary to the law.

The officers of the Liquor Dealers' Association declare that the whole proceeding on the part of the police is farcical, and will be of no effect, and that it was only an attempt on the part of the Police Commissioners to annoy the liquor dealers.

County Treasurer Wheeler said he believed that the action of the police was entirely illegal, as the law plainly provided that he should have time to issue the certificates, and that the business of the saloon men need not be meanwhile suspended.

BAPTISTS DISORGANIZED.

Dismissal of Members of a Hackensack Church is Followed by Many Prospective Resignations.

Hackensack, N. J., May 5.—Twenty-one of the leading members of the First Baptist Church of this town last night applied for their letters, a few minutes after six other members had been practically dismissed from the church, charged with having violated the covenant obligation of the church.

They were also accused of having insufficient love and esteem for the pastor, Rev. P. D. Reed. To-night a meeting was held for the purpose of perfecting plans for the organization of another Baptist church.

DESIRABLE TROLLEY LINK.

General Spencer's Idea for a Route Between Newark and Paterson.

Franklin, N. J., May 5.—General Bird W. Spencer, representing the Paterson & Newark Electric Railway, announced to the Township Committee last night a scheme to connect that town with the towns on the west and Newark.

General Spencer wants a franchise to lay tracks from this town, and connecting with the Consolidated Traction Company's line at Bloomfield. The proposed route will be through the town of Bloomfield, and to the inclined plane at North Bloomfield and connecting with cars for Orange and Bloomfield. In the event of General Spencer's success, a direct line would be a direct route from Newark to Paterson by trolley.

TRAY FOR EXCISE VIOLATORS.

Second-Offense Cases in Jersey Will Be Rigidly Dealt With.

Police Justices Peats and Douglass, of Jersey City, have decided that they have jurisdiction of the cases of the men recently arrested for selling liquor on Sunday. The first batch, arrested three or four weeks ago, were indicted by the Grand Jury. Judge Hodge has imposed fines of $5 and costs upon several of the indicted liquor dealers who pleaded guilty.

The Police Justices say they will dispose of first offense cases, and second and subsequent offenses will be dealt with on prima facie evidence sent in commitment for the Grand Jury. Conviction under the Excise law will incur a liability of not less than $500 or imprisonment for not more than two years.

PATERSON HIGHWAYMAN CONVICTED.

Paterson, N. J., May 5.—Michael Hogan and Frederick Rogers, who held up W. O. Reservoir and David Dringer and shot the latter four weeks ago, were convicted in the Court of Quarter Sessions this afternoon on indictments for attempting highway robbery, assault with intent to kill and burglary. There are eighteen indictments against the two, and it is expected that they will be convicted on each and given the full extent of the law.

MAYOR PICKENS DEAD.

Little Ferry, N. J., May 5.—Mayor James Pickens, of the borough of Little Ferry, one of the best known men in Bergen County, died this morning after a long and painful illness. He was fifty-seven years old, and had been a Postmaster for several years. Death was due to a complication of diseases.

CARRIED AWAY IN A FREIGHT CAR.

the Car, the Doors Fly Shut and Away They Go.

CRIES FOR HELP ARE UNHEARD.

They Speed Over the Rails in Their Prison
Van Till Far Into the Night, and Are Not Rescued Till the Train
Reaches Easton, Pa.

William Duff, fifteen years old, of No. 208 Walton street; Louis Oberle, fourteen years old, of No. 555 Grand street, and Perry Allen, thirteen years old, of No. 263 Van Horn street, Jersey City, are chums. Bright and early Monday morning they started out to see the parade of the Barnum & Bailey Show. An empty freight car, "on a" on a Lehigh Valley Railroad yard, at Grand street, and Pacific avenue. The parade was approaching as the boys spled it.

"Let us climb in; it will be a dandy place to see the parade," suggested William Duff. The boys climbed into the car, and so absorbed were they in watching a number of monkeys riding along on poles that they failed to see an engine backing down toward the car.

As the engine bumped against the car the sliding door closed with a snap. As the boys ran toward the other door that also closed. The snap catches on both doors worked from the outside, and the three boys were prisoners. They cried for help as they found the car moving, and beat against the doors, but no one heard their shouts. The car was run over to the main line and attached to a west-bound freight train. Then, with a snort and puff, the freight engine started off. Through the chinks in the doors the boys peered eagerly, shouting in the meanwhile for help. As the car sped past the Lafayette station, near the boys' home, they redoubled their cries. The crew of the train, were in the caboose at the rear, however, and failed to hear them.

Or through the country sped the long train of freight cars, three very miserable youngsters weeping loudly in their prison on wheels. As night came on, the boys became more miserable. Little Allen finally curled up on the floor of the car and went to sleep. The others pointed out the doors and cried for help alternately, but without attracting any one's attention. At last the train rolled into Easton, Pa. There it stopped, and the boys again called for help. This time their cries were heard by several loungers at the depot and the car door was opened.

Three very unhappy little boys leaped out. They were nearly dead from fright and the stifling air in the car. The Lehigh Valley Railroad officials sent word to the Jersey City police, and they notified the parents of the boys. The boys' father went to Easton on the midnight train and brought the boys home yesterday.

RUN DOWN BY A BICYCLER.

Seven-Year-Old Brooklyn Boy Gets a Fracture of the Skull and May Die.

Charles Anderson, a South Brooklyn boy, was run down by a bicyclist yesterday and received injuries which may cause his death. William Lackey, seventeen years old, of No. 140 Twenty-first street, the young wheelman who injured him, is under arrest.

Anderson, who is only seven years old, left his home at No. 661 Fourth avenue to do some chores for his mother at 2 p. m. yesterday. When he reached Eighth street Lackey was out, who for a spin on his wheel, came whirling up the avenue.

Anderson started to run across the street and succeeded in getting half way over the curb when Lackey's wheel struck him in the side. The boy went down as if shot, and his head struck the hard granite pavement. His skull was fractured.

Lackey was thrown from his wheel, and he landed on his head, but he got up and assisted the helpless boy. A policeman who witnessed the accident had an ambulance summoned from Seney Hospital. The boy was removed there hurriedly. He remains unconscious for four or five days.

A CRY OF WARNING.

"I suffered for years and years with urticaria and kidney trouble in my worst forms. I had terrible pains in my abdomen and back; could hardly drag myself around; had the 'blues' all the time, was cross to every one; but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me of all my pains."

"I cannot praise it enough, and cry aloud to all women that their suffering is unnecessary; go to your druggist and get a bottle that you may try it anyway. You owe this chance of recovery to yourself."—MRS. J. STENARD, 2218 Amber St., Kensington, Phila., Pa.

Clair claims the injury was not his fault, and that he had been riding on the bridge.

HELD UP FOR BEER BY HOBBOES.
Newark, May 5.—Hoboes of all descriptions are infesting this city and suburban districts, and many citizens have made complaints of the systematic hold-ups of which they have been made the victims. The chief aim of these rascals is to get sufficient money to buy beer. No force has thus far been used, but the appearance of half a dozen tramps about a pedestrian is sufficient to gain the price of a pint. Complainers say that the police have made 10 efforts to drive them away.

FLYING LEAP FROM A CARRIAGE.

The Thief Who Held the Horse's Head

Lambertville, N. J., May 5.—Three young men of this city, Edward Benson, Robert Savage and Fred Trimmer, while returning home from a dance in Sergeantville, just above this city, late last night, experienced a thrilling encounter with two highwaymen near this city.

The young men left the dance for home about 12 o'clock, in a two-seated carriage, drawn by one horse. Just before reaching this city, the road leads through a covered bridge over Alessandro Creek, about one hundred feet in length, which is not lighted.

They had proceeded but half way through the bridge when they heard a voice, demanding them to halt and have over their money and valuables. At the same time the horse's head was seized, bringing the carriage to a standstill. For a moment the men were panic stricken, but Savage, recovering his presence of mind, struck the horse with the whip. The animal bounded forward, but the highwayman held on. His companion again demanded their money, at the same time flourishing a revolver.

By this time Savage became desperate, and seeing his chance made a flying jump from the carriage on the highwayman, with the pistol felling him to the bridge floor. Benson at the same time hit the horse, which lurched forward, throwing the other highwayman off his feet. Benson hit the man with the butt end of the whip, and he started off on a brisk run without his companion. Then, turning his

COWS AND TROLLEYS MIX.

Two Cars and a Drove of Cattle Get Tangled at a Crossing in Jersey City.

A drove of cows yesterday morning nearly caused a serious accident at West Side avenue and Union street, Jersey City. Two electric cars were passing in opposite directions when the cows became frightened and started to cross the tracks. The south-bound car struck one of the cows, tossing her high in the air. A heifer was caught in the fender of the other car.

Both cars were crowded with passengers, who, startled at the collision with the cows, jumped excited
